Former Naturalist Publishes Environmental Education Book!

Long-time friends of SCNC will probably remember Kenny Peavy, a former naturalist. Always an adventurous spirit, Kenny met his future wife Geetha, traveled to Malaysia and made it his new home.

Along with co-author Thom Henley, they have created As If the Earth Matters, a world-wide journey into environmental education. Filled with playful activities and thought-provoking concepts, this book examines relationships between humans and the world around them.

Many other books focus on North American ecosystems and issues, but this book takes an international approach and fosters exploration and life-long learning. As If the Earth Matters has wonderful photographs and a wide variety of discovery-based activities for classrooms, camps, and parents and children.

To learn more about this book, visit the website <http://asiftheearthmatters.wordpress.com/> It is available in the Frog Pond giftshop here at the nature center, and on Amazon.com. Kudos to Kenny for creating a valuable and entertaining resource for everyone!
